

Additional Information

Please note the following:

1. Upstairs ensuite chalets do not have a kitchen but can access the kitchen in the downstairs chalet.
2. Downstairs ensuite chalets are expected to share their kitchen with upstairs ensuite chalets
3. Leisure homes each have two twins and one double room. The double beds are quite narrow and may not be suitable for couples who don't like to cuddle! Please agree with your leisure home mates who will be sleeping in which room so that you can bring the appropriate bedding.
4. We will be taking a love offering for our visiting speaker during the weekend. Please pray about how much you should contribute to this and come prepared to give what you feel is right.

Kit List

As well as your normal clothes and toiletries, you will need to bring the following for chalets and leisure homes:

- Bottom sheet - most people will need a single sheet, but if you are in a leisure home you may need a double (please see information above)
- Duvet cover - most people will need a single duvet cover, but if you are in a leisure home you may need a double (please see information above)
- Pillowcase – please note that in most accommodation there is only one pillow provided per bed so if you require more than one, and do not have excess beds in your room, you will need to bring another with you.
- Towels

You may also want to bring the following:

- Tea / coffee / milk – all of the chalets and leisure homes have access to a kitchen which you can use to make beverages if you like. You might like to agree with the others in your accommodation who brings what.
- Snacks – to have in your room for emergencies!
- Cold drinks – to have in your accommodation.
- Tea towels / dish cloths / washing up liquid.
- Travel cot – alternatively cots can be hired from Reception.
- Tennis rackets & balls – the court is free to use if you bring your own equipment.
- Golf balls – for use on the pitch and putt and crazy golf; clubs are available to borrow.
- Table tennis balls – rackets are available to borrow.
- Trainers and / or walking boots.
- Bible!

Please can you also bring:

- At least one Cake for everyone to share. These will be collected on the first evening and eaten throughout the weekend (nothing that needs to go in the fridge please)
- Drinks for quiz night – wine, beer, juice or pop
